EDITORIAL

2018 has seen Members celebrate the Club's Bicentenary across the world, from Sydney in Australia to New York in the United States to Dublin in Ireland, Cape Town in South Africa and of course in Henley and London.

These events have brought Members together and shown Members from all age groups sharing their enthusiasm for the Club and our sport while catching up with old friends.

In this Newsletter we have tried to capture many of these events with photographs showing the enjoyment these events provided.

The Leander family is a broad church ranging from Olympians through Henley medallists including those who helped them along the way to those who make our sport possible as a fellow athlete or in administration and coaching on and off the water.

This is well illustrated in our 'Remembering Members' page in this edition where we remember a silver medallist Olympian, a Henley winning cox and an outstanding administrator of our sport. This Newsletter tries to bring news of what is happening at the Club and also across the Membership.

The support our Bicentenary events has received across the world shows just how much Leander Membership is prized thought the rowing world.

As Members we are each individually well placed to encourage our friends in the rowing world to join the Club and share these experiences.

If you have a friend that you feel would enjoy being a Member please encourage them and support their application.

If you are unsure about the process or whether your candidate meets the Membership criteria, which can seem a little mysterious, please ask Fiona Dennis our new Honorary Secretary who will give you guidance and any needed support.

New Members are welcome, and help support the Club in maintaining its pre-eminent position in the rowing world.

The Newsletter is sent out twice a year and we want to make it a publication you look forward to receiving because the content is interesting and relevant.

We recognise that it will not always cover the Club or rowing items that you are most interested in so we challenge you to join in!

To help improve the Newsletter your ideas of items you would like to see in future editions are welcome. We also welcome new contributors so if you have an article that you think other Members will find of interest please submit it.

Please send your ideas, whatever they may be, to editor@leander.co.uk.

GUILDHALL DINNER

Message from the Prime Minister:

"Congratulations to Leander Club as you celebrate your Bicentenary. I am sorry not to be with you for this special event, but I am delighted to send my best wishes, along with my thanks for everything that you have done to support rowing in our country. You can be proud of your remarkable achievements over the past two centuries – not least in winning more Olympic medals than any other single-sport club in the world. But you can also take equal pride in knowing that in training and nurturing medal winners, you have helped to inspire thousands of ordinary people across the country to watch and participate in rowing and other water sports as well. As your local Member of Parliament, and as a Member of the Club myself, I am pleased once again to offer my congratulations on this wonderful milestone."

HARRY LEASK CAME TO LEANDER WHEN HE WAS 16 AND CAME 4TH AT THE WORLD CHAMPIONSHIPS THIS YEAR IN HIS SINGLE. HE LOOKS BACK AT HIS TIME AT THE CLUB.

It was both a difficult and an easy decision to move to Henley from Edinburgh at the age of sixteen. Easy for me but you can imagine not for my parents! Leander became my second home. This was all in the name of hopefully fulling my dream of becoming an Olympic rower.

The first season didn't start well, I had a previous back issue and was told I was fit, but disappointingly after a few weeks I was off rowing and in rehab. I could say I submerged myself in rehab, education and college work but I'm sure Martin Unsworth at Henley College will tell you something different as all I wanted to do was repair and drive tractors. Luckily I picked up a job with Henley Contracting which allowed me to do this, many know this is my next passion to rowing.

A season which started off badly saw me finishing fit and in the junior quad for the Fawley Cup. The hunger for a HRR medal began with high hopes but these were dashed when we broke a scull on the start. The 2012/13 season could only be better! Another year working towards the Fawley cup at HRR, unfortunately we didn't deliver but I did deliver a gold at the British Championships.

I arrived back to training very excited as usual for a 2014/15 season. I was now U23 and training with the 'big boys', it was a step up but one I would reap the benefit of, a big group of experienced athletes. At this time I thought I'd give sweep a try, but had some fun in the process and was paired with Andy Joel. Andy and I had a few wins at Essen regatta in the pair and have stayed together through U23 trials.

However it was decided that Andy and I would scull in a quad with Jack Beaumont and Nick Middleton for the Prince of Wales Challenge Cup for HRR. Now tell me, who wouldn't have jumped back to sculling to race with those guys! The pressure was intense, but the support and experience was even greater. Training camp went well and before I knew it the Regatta was upon us. I can't put into words the feeling of being clapped out of your club and home, feeling like a king and paddling to the start. People in boats and on the banks shouting 'come on Leander', I was so proud to be wearing that Hippo. Well if I thought the start was good, you can imagine crossing that line and coming 'home' to be greeted by Jeremy Randall clutching a bottle of Digby - truly amazina.

2018 European bronze with Jack Beaumont

That summer saw the start of my GB experiences at Plovdiv, as I'd managed to secure a seat in the eight for U23's. This was my first Worlds as it had eluded me as a junior due to my injury. The run up to racing, kit day, racing was truly amazing. We finished in 5th place but all this helps to develop, strengthen and makes you hungry for future races.

Well, with the brief moment of relapse behind me, I realised sculling was my true love, I started the season 2015/16 in the sculling squad under Ross Hunter. It started well with a win in the U23 quad at the British Rowing Championships, chasing the senior Leander quad, finishing 2nd overall. Andy and I were joined by Harry Glenister and Rowan Law, this crew held together for the next two years.

As all rowers know injury can be round the next corner and just before trials I had a stress fracture to my rib, again back on rehab. Thankfully recovering in time for the summer camp in Banyoles. As 2016 was an Olympic year there was no GB quad so we were entered into The Queen Mother Challenge Cup. It fell on us to pick up the challenge and try to win it for the club. We were all nervous, anxious and very excited, it gave us the opportunity to prove ourselves as U23's.

Going into the regatta we had confidence but knew it would be no easy feat, but it was our stretch of water and no one knew it better than us! Well, we did it and came back to the club to that very special reception. We were selected to continue onto the U23 World Championships where we finished 5th. With a good result in the quad the previous year the goal for the season 2016/17 was to medal at the U23 World Championships which was not going to be an easy feat. For three of us in the boat this was our last year as U23's. With the start of the season going well we were given the chance to go to the 1st World Cup in Belgrade to get some more experience at an international level. This no doubt helped us develop. We managed to hold our heads up with a 4th place, and it was back to preparing for HRR.

We had another fantastic regatta with a win in the Prince of Wales followed by the U23 World Championships; luckily, we all got selected in our quad so off we went for my second experience in Plovdiv.

Well if I thought U23's was a big step, this autumn's one was mammoth, 'the seniors'. I continued getting PB's, pre trials camp at Dorney went well and then onto final trials. I knew I had to make a mark this year and I fortunately finished second behind Tom Barras. GB then invited me to attend training at Caversham, where things continued to go well. I was in the single at the Belgrade World Cup where I finished 2nd in the C final, at the 2nd World Cup I was 1st in the B final so was definitely going in the right direction!

I didn't get a chance to race for Leander at HRR but supported the rest of the club in their racing, while at the same time wishing I was heading to the start line and being able to fight it out for a win. Meanwhile, I was integrating into the program with GB and sights set on being able to do a good job as we went into preparation for the European Championships and hopefully the World Championships.

In the lead up to the Europeans I was entered to race the single. The Thursday before the regatta news came that Angus Groom was unable to race so I was given the fantastic opportunity to row again with Jack Beaumont; the first time being back in 2015. If you had said at the start of the season I'd be in the Senior Squad and would have a European bronze medal I'd have said you were dreaming.

Onto the World Championships and back into my single after a grueling altitude camp and speed camp it was back to Plovdiv, I knew the course and venue well by now. Sitting on the start for the final was an amazing feeling, I fought hard throughout the race and finished in 4th, beating some big names!

Words cannot express my gratitude to Leander for its ethos, the coaching and the belief and I would also like to thank GB for the opportunity to fulfil my dream. Hopefully next time it delivers a medal.

WORLD CHAMPIONSHIPS

Mark Banks reflects on this year's Championships

James Johnston, Adam Neil, Jacob Dawson and Tom Ford

We would like to congratulate all of the Leander athletes on their performances at the World Championships in Plovdiv, Bulgaria.

The Club had an impressive thirty one athletes selected in the GBR team with nineteen coming through our high-performance programme which is testament to the club's process of nurturing and developing talent coming to us post university.

The standard of the rest of the world is so very high currently, so with qualification for the Olympics approaching it was pleasing to see so many boats in a qualifying position two years out.

Special mention should go to Erin Wysocki-Jones for coxing the PR3 Mixed 4+ to a gold medal in her first year in the senior team.

NATASHA HARRIS-WHITE LOOKS BACK ON HER WIN AT HENLEY WOMEN'S REGATTA

I was over the moon to win Henley Women's Regatta in the Leander Women's pair as I have lived in Henley my whole life and it's my home stretch of water. For me, the experience was even more momentous because my friends and family were able to watch. Henley Women's Regatta marked the end of a fantastic first year at Leander for many of us with all of the crews either reaching the semi-finals or the finals in their respective events. The Championship quad with a last-minute crew change made the semi- final and so did the four which had their best race of the season against Molesey who narrowly beat them by half a length. The two girls in the double had recently returned from the US where they had been sweep rowing but still managed to make their final.

As well as this our small squad of twelve athletes also managed to achieve two athletes for the senior Worlds, three for the World Under 23 Championships all making the A final, one for FISU returning with two Gold medals and one for the Under 23 European Championships, also making the final.

JAMES STANHOPE REFLECTS ON HIS WIN IN THE VISITORS' and the Club's 200th win in the Stewards' at Henley as well as the Club's other successes at this year's regatta.

Visitors' Challenge Cup winners: Barney Stentiford, Tim Clarke, James Stanhope, Ross Jarvis with their coach Matt Beechey

I was exceptionally nervous lining up on the start line of my first Henley final for the Club in the Visitors' Challenge Cup. Thankfully a reassuring tap on the back from Tim Clarke before we were called forward concentrated my thoughts on the task at hand and I was ready to go.

Nine months prior, I had graduated from Oxford Brookes University having mainly rowed eights and wanting to take my rowing to the next level.

I had fallen out of love with the sport in my last training environment but this was soon resolved, with a new improved training program tailored to the individual and with Matt Beechey's patience, my rowing improved. I was welcomed into a group, of which I had previously competed against, with open arms and although the members changed, with athletes moving in and out of the senior team squad, the work ethic and determination remained.

Having seen the Prince of Wales quad and the Thames cup eight go out in hard fought races the day before, we felt we had a duty to compete to win for the guys we had trained with earlier in the year.

I felt, as the youngest member in the four and as the only athlete with no international experience, a great deal of pressure to reach the high standards the other three members had set throughout the year.

Our opposition was the University of London, whom we had raced a few times before and come out victorious. However, this was a Henley final and previous results usually hold little meaning.

Thankfully we had a great start and were up by the end of the island and we continued to extend this lead to Fawley. I had been struggling with compartment syndrome in my forearms all year and could feel the symptoms come on at this point. A call from Barney in the bow seat at Upper Thames reassured me that the three athletes behind, who I felt lucky to row with, could drag me over the line, where I lost my blade behind my head in celebration. At least it made for a good picture.

Stewards' Challenge Cup winners: James Johnston, Adam Neil, Jacob Dawson and Tom Ford The 200th win for the Club at Henley Royal Regatta. The Club first won the Stewards' in 1849.

The Club also brought up it's 200th win at Henley Regatta in the Stewards' Challenge Cup (first won by the Club in 1849) in its 200th anniversary.

The crew showed their class in the final by dismantling the top GB U23 boat with ease and went on to win a bronze medal at the World Championships.

In the Queen Mother Challenge Cup the GB men's quad also proved victorious, beating the Danish quad in a straight final setting new records to the Barrier and Fawley, in an impressive display.

In the smaller boat classes, the Leander pair of Rossiter and Glenister had a successful run losing to the Sinkovic brothers, the eventual winners and world champions, on the Saturday.

In the Double Sculls Challenge Cup, Leander Club athletes Jack Beaumont and Angus Groom beat the Irish double of the O'Donovan brothers. This was Jack's seventh Henley win, and he said he was "delighted to win and to break the finish record was the icing on the cake".

MEET THE NEW CLUB PRESIDENT

Mike Sweeney, who became President on 1st September 2018

WHEN DID YOU FIRST BECOME A MEMBER?

In the sixties Leander was very much an Oxbridge club. I ticked the eligibility box by winning the Cambridge Light Fours event in 1964 and I was a Leander Member by the time that the Cambridge Blue Boat spent a week training at the Club before the 1965 Boat Race.

WAS THERE A DEFINING MOMENT IN YOUR LONG CAREER IN THE WORLD OF ROWING?

It would have to be my crew's non-selection for the Mexico Olympics in 1968. I acknowledge that I am biased but the selection 'process' in 1968 was a scandal. However, within a year of my final race at the World Championships in 1970 I was persuaded to join the Selection Board. Chairmanship of the Board swiftly followed - then GB Team Manager - Henley Steward - FISA Umpire - Chairman of the FISA Events Commission - Chairman of Henley Royal Regatta - a roller coaster !

WHAT HAS MOTIVATED YOU TO STAY INVOLVED FOR SO LONG AND IN SO MANY DIFFERENT ROLES?

Three key words - the first word would be 'fairness' - not surprising after the events of 1968. The next word would be 'performance' - in the fifties and sixties the average position of GB crews in World Championships and Olympic Games was 9th. Working with a small number of dedicated people through the seventies I believe that we turned GB rowing round and started it on the road to the future success that we are all now able to enjoy.

The third word would be 'standards' over the past 25 years there have been dramatic improvements in the standards of all the FISA events and Olympic Regattas together with the ever improving standards of Henley Royal Regatta. I like to think that I played my part in these changes.

HOW DO YOU SEE YOUR ROLE AS THE NEW PRESIDENT OF THE CLUB?

To help the Committee to continue to operate the most successful of clubs both on the land and on the water. Times continue to change and new challenges are already facing us - maintaining our current membership levels, adapting to the pressures of a changing rowing environment, maximising the use of our wonderful clubhouse and ensuring a sound financial basis for all our activities. I see the President as the senior ambassador of the Club - a role that I am very much looking forward to fill.

ROWAN LAW WINS GOLD AT U23 WORLD CHAMPIONSHIPS

The Club was represented by nine athletes in eight boats at this year's Under 23 World Championships that were held in Poznan in Poland at the end of July.

Rowan Law won the gold medal in the quad scull with Sam Meijer (Elizabethan BC) Josh Armstrong (Edinburgh University BC) and Matt Haywood (Nottingham RC).

Lenny Jenkins and Harvey Kay rowed in the men's eight winning the silver medal behind the USA crew. A silver medal was also won by Hanna Scott and her pairs partner Heidi Long (Marlow RC) in the women's pair.

Zoe Adamson won a bronze medal in women's quad scull to bring the medal haul for the club's athletes to one gold, three silver and one bronze. Outside the medals, Charlie Elwes came 5th in the Men's coxless four and Ruth Siddorn coached by Ross Hunter also achieved 5th place in the women's single scull. Sam Meijer, Josh Armstrong, Matt Haywood and Rowan Law

Flo Donald, rowing in the women's coxless four came in 6th in the A final and Seb Matthews sculling in the lightweight men's quad finish third in the B final for a 9th overall place.

FIONA DENNIS TOOK OVER AS THE CLUB'S NEW HONORARY SECRETARY ON 1ST SEPTEMBER

We asked her about her new role.

WHEN DID YOU FIRST BECOME A MEMBER?

I joined Leander in 1998 and was delighted to be one of the first women to be elected for services to rowing.

WHEN DID YOU FIRST GET INVOLVED IN THE COMMITTEE?

I was elected in 2016. Whilst a relatively new addition to the committee, I've gained administrative experience having served on British Rowing Executive, Council and Chairman, National Competition Committee. I've also been involved in event organisation for example, the Olympics and Paralympics in 2012, Ex Chair of British Rowing Championships, Chief umpire of Henley Women's regatta, HRR Steward and a FISA umpire.

WHAT EXCITES YOU ABOUT BECOMING HON SEC?

What's exciting for me is the opportunity to 'make a difference'. Using the experience gained across the sport to make a valuable contribution to the future development of the club.

WHAT CHALLENGES DO YOU THINK THE CLUB FACES IN THE FUTURE?

Continued rowing success is dependent on a financially successful club. We need to provide a club which is valued by the members and their guests. In addition, attracting commercial business which provides welcome revenue for the club. Achieving this balance is a challenge in a world of constant change, however it is essential if we are to retain a highly talented squad of athletes.

Key to our success is being able to adapt to the changing needs of our members. I'd like to see the current average age of 62 reduce with more current and ex athletes choosing to retain their membership. As Hon Sec I'm keen to hear from members; what do you want from the club, how can we encourage potential younger members to join the club? All views and ideas welcome!

PLAQUE AT LAMBETH

When Tea at the House of Commons was first mooted as a significant event in our Bicentenary calendar it seemed the ideal opportunity to link the celebration with the Club's foundation on the South Bank of the Thames, as Robert Treharne Jones takes up the story.

There was a buzz in the air when the Leander bicentenary group first discussed the events that might mark our 200th anniversary. The Houses of Parliament have a special place in our history, being directly opposite the point at which six gentlemen first clambered aboard a six-oared cutter, boating from Searle's boathouse in Lambeth, marking the foundation of Leander Club.

It was only when we compared the current geography with nineteenth century maps that a solution appeared. For the site of Searle's boathouse, under the shadow of Westminster Bridge, was now occupied by the Fountain Garden, an oasis of green enjoyed by hospital patients and visitors alike. And so the idea of a memorial slab was born.

The necessary permission from the hospital authorities was rapidly gained after a phone call to a member of the board with whom I shared a boat at Barts, this was quickly followed by Tommy's agreeing that our ideas amounted to A Good Thing.

Because the bicentenary budget had long been allocated, the total project costs of £3500 had to be met in other ways. After that it was simply a matter of emailing a circle of friends to contribute the agreed sum of $\pounds100$ a head and within two weeks the costs had been covered.

The St Thomas's Hospital authorities went on to provide active support to our project, putting us in touch with their preferred suppliers, as well as their catering team, who would assist practicalities during the official unveiling.

The design having been agreed, the stonemasons set to work at their base in Chichester, and with barely a week to go until the official unveiling the contractors arrived on site to lay the slab. It was a simple procedure, but hugely significant for Leander, with many hospital staff and passers-by taking a keen interest in the activity.

The day of the official unveiling dawned bright and clear and almost two hundred Leander members and guests made their way over Westminster Bridge to see the Leander president, 'Rass' Randall, pull aside the club flag to reveal the newly-installed slab, to the delight of the assembled company.

LIFE AFTER ROWING

Olympic Gold medallist Alex Gregory retired from rowing after the Rio Olympics and has recently published his first book 'Dadventures'. Alex explains how the book came about.

What is it that we remember most about our childhood?

"I remember disappearing off across the fields all day, kids don't do that now". It's a sentence I hear all the time, of course it's not strictly true, some do, but certainly not as many as when we were kids or when our parents were young.

Dadventures is a guide for parents, grandparents or carers of young children, born from the realisation that it's now not so common to know about out-door pursuits that were once widely enjoyed.

It's a book for people who have slipped into the routine of busy, working lives, who have fallen into the trap of finding screens the answer to the hectic home life. I'm not advocating total removal of screens! Our children need to be able to navigate this connected world, it's a skill and an understanding that is becoming ever more important, but I think they also need to continue to be in touch with the natural world as that is something we're losing.

The motivation to write Dadventures came from a number of different areas. I have written about the things I loved to do as a child and things we love to do as a family now.

As the parents of three young children, time is not always our friend. It's impossible to devote all our time to all of them, so it's the quality of time that I believe really counts. Having sadly missed two of my three children's births during my rowing career, time together has become something truly important to us.

Finally, while floating somewhere in the Arctic ocean in the middle of a storm, many days away from anywhere in any direction, certain death if we were to capsize our tiny ocean rowing boat I was curled up, wet through in the three foot by three foot cabin. I wrote a final message to my family on my phone just in case we didn't make it. I realised then that my kids didn't care if I was being a brave Arctic explorer doing something that no one had ever done before, they didn't care about records or personal discovery, all they cared about was time at home with me, having a bike ride, camping in the garden or cooking marshmallows over the fire.

The most precious thing we have is time, and with young children that beautiful time is finite. Thankfully I made it back home safely with my fellow crew mates.

We had a risky but wonderful expedition across the Arctic ocean with some stories to tell and records to note, but any time I have now, I know I must spend on smaller adventures that will create happy lasting memories with my children - Dadventures!

I've divided the book into 8 chapters, each based on a different amount of time. From after school activities to overnight expeditions, hopefully there's something for everyone there.

The point about the book is not that every activity has to be done perfectly, or even to completion, but it's about giving people the helping hand they may need to get outside with a purpose.

That initial purpose can change, be adapted, altered or forgotten, but by that point they have spent time together in hopefully memorable ways!

Dadventures is published by HarperCollins and is available in bookshops and online.

NEW GATEWAY OPENED TO MARK THE BICENTENARY OF THE CLUB

The Club has a new and much improved entrance thanks to the generosity of Members who contributed to our '200 Club' appeal, launched last November, to mark the Bicentenary of the Club.

Their contributions funded the new gateway which was officially opened by Sir Steve Redgrave on 30th September.

The new gates were given in memory of Derek Drury and opened earlier in 2018. Both events have been recorded in plaques either side of the gates.

Sir Steve prepares to start the demolition of the old gateway.

Several Hours later....

With the old entrance and wall cleared from site ready.

The roof that follows the design of the roof over the main entrance takes shape..

The wider gateway starts to take shape...

The new gates which were given in memory of Derek Drury—an inspirational coach whose winning 1968 Thames Cup crew rowed over the course during the regatta to celebrate its win 50 years ago.

With the building work complete , awaiting for the gates... the new gateway is wider giving better access to the Club during the regatta and making getting boats in and out of the garden much easier.

Sir Steve Redgrave unveils the stone that marks the official opening.

MEET THE CLUB'S NEW Head Chef—Vasil Vasilev

The Committee is delighted to introduce the new Head Chef, Vasil 'Vas' Vasilev who has been promoted from Sous Chef after four years at the Club.

Vasil, who is originally from Bulgaria, moved to the UK in 2011 with his wife. He discovered his passion for cooking while working as a kitchen porter at the Hilton in Sophia to earn money while he was studying at university. He soon discovered that the kitchen was the place to be and persuaded the Head Chef to take him on as a commis chef.

He's been able to hone his skills most recently at Stoke Place in Slough and Cannizaro House in Wimbledon, both three rosette restaurants before joining Leander as our Sous Chef in 2014. Those experiences drew him to Leander as he says 'we cook with love from raw ingredients, not packets and we have stock pots on the stove. We make all our sauces, desserts and ice creams'.

With fifteen years experience, like all chefs, Vas believes locally and responsibly sourced ingredients in keeping with the season are the key to a successful dish.

"My favourite dish on the menu right now is the red wine braised lamb shank with honey and parsnip as it's perfect for this autumnal weather."

"I particularly enjoy Fine Dining Evenings as they're an opportunity for me and the team to show a little bit more culinary art and experiment with new seasonal dishes and local produce.

As the numbers are limited to forty places we can really refine each dish and treat the members to something special each month. Vas has also introduced a new crew menu, which Members, as has become customary, can also enjoy at the bar. "I hope that the athletes in particular are enjoying the new crew menu and we aim to offer portions suitable to meet their daily 5000 calorie intake requirements while being nutritionally well balanced ".

Like the athletes, Vas starts his day with a bowl of hearty porridge.

Now a father of two, Ema and Ana, Vasil prefers nothing more than enjoying the out-doors and hiking with his family when not at the Club.

PAPIER MACHE HIPPOS RAISE OVER £8000 FOR THE KAFUE RIVER AND ROWING CENTRE IN ZAMBIA

Caroline Mulcahy explains:

In February we invited local schools, artists, athletes and celebrities to take part in our hippo project, seeking to engage the community in Leander's bicentenary year. The goal was to raise money for the Kafue River and Rowing Centre in Zambia, Africa by auctioning off the hippos.

We were thrilled to be able to do this as the local community has supported the Club by housing athletes or providing them with paid employment or work experience. We have much to thank them for in the success of the Club. They always come out in force to celebrate the Olympic Homecomings or other rowing related events such as the Olympic torch relay.

'Silas' by Alex Richardson , Henley Pet Shop

The project was based around a papier mache hippo cast which was given to individuals or shared by groups who teamed up to design their own.

'Horatio' by Bill Munday

Local Primary School, Badgemore, launched a school-wide competition whilst the local Brownies teamed up to design four. Some artists such as Bexy Butcher and Sarah Pye used the local landscape as inspiration with Sarah even using a piece of driftwood to complete her design.

'The Hippopoa-Toad' by The River and Rowing Museum

Valley Road School Students used local celebrities as their inspiration and Debbie McGee and the late Paul Daniels, who resided in nearby Wargrave, were both re-imagined in hippo format much to Debbie's delight. We were invited onto her breakfast show on BBC Radio Berkshire to discuss the project with two students!

'Pete' - In naval uniform by Peter Reed

Never could the saying 'don't work with children and animals' be any more apt than then as the microphone was pulled to pieces live on air!

All manner of materials were used, with a couple of artists spending considerable time prepping their cast before starting on the design. Julia Welburn and Emma Benz both applied Polyfiler and spent hours sanding down to get a perfect finish before starting their considered designs.

'Shiplake Boy' by Harry Saker , Shiplake College

A trip back to Shiplake College Art School aided Will Satch to complete his hippo 'Piggysmalls', whilst both former Captain Debbie Bruwer (née Flood) and current Captain Vicky Thornley painted theirs in pink with the former giving a nod to her former club Tideway Scullers and the latter dedicating hers to Queen Elizabeth II, the Club's Patron. Pete Reed painted his in Navy regalia complete with three Olympic medals.

Photography by Nick Middleton

The finished painted hippos were then returned to the Club for their all-important photo shoot with another former Club Captain, Nick Middleton. "It was one of the most interesting photoshoots I've ever done; they were all so different and really impressive".

The hippos were unveiled at the opening of 'The First 200 Years' exhibition at the River and Rowing Museum to much local acclaim. A second public exhibition followed the week later during half term to enable as many people that decorated them to see their finished hippos!

The hippos went 'on tour' for Henley Royal Regatta week all over Henley and we'd personally like to thank all of the shops and businesses that took part, including Henley Library and the Town Hall. An online map on Leander's website depicted where all of the hippos were located so evryone was able to follow the trail around Henley with some establishments keeping them all summer.

'Kerry' - A unique bronze hippo by Mark Stoddart

The auction ran from the launch in May through to the 16th September at 7pm. A huge surge of last minute bids saw the website 'crash' with 30 minutes before anyone was able to log in and see the results! We were incredibly grateful for everyone's support and to date we have managed to raise in excess of £8,000.

The funds raised are going to the Kafue River and Rowing Centre in Zambia, Africa. The project is a strategic alliance of World Rowing and is also backed by the WWF.

We would like to thank all those who took part in this project and generously bid in the auction.

LEST WE FORGET

The Great War started in 1914 following the assassination of Archduke Ferdinand, and the years that followed saw an unprecedented loss of life as one nation after another launched into the conflict, thanks to a series of complex alliances. The last Leander man to be killed in action had his life cut short at a cruelly young age, like so many of his contemporaries, as Robert Treharne Jones reports.

The first Leander member to fall in the Great War had been Trooper Frederick Buller, of the East African Mounted Rifles, who had died in a skirmish across the border between the countries that are now Kenya and Tanzania, which then represented British and German territories.

As Nicky Bird and Mike Willoughby recorded in our bicentenary book: "It is no surprise that the number of Leander dead in this most gruesome of wars is almost identical to the total number hailing from Henley that were killed in action. As Wordsworth said, "the good die first" and these men were without doubt exceptional – fine athletes from public schools and Oxbridge, naive perhaps and unquestioning but willing to lead men into battle and die for their country."

Four years later the last of 136 Leander men to be killed in action was William Herbert Gladstone, scion of the dynasty that included an Olympic gold medallist, a prime minister, and several MPs.

Gladstone's grave at Sanders Keep military cemetery, near Cambrai, France.

Gladstone was born in 1898, the youngest of the four sons of the Reverend Stephen Edward and Annie Crosthwaite Gladstone, at Hawarden, Flintshire, the ancestral home of the Gladstone family.

Stephen served as rector of Hawarden for 32 years and was himself was the second son of the former Prime Minister William Ewart Gladstone, who died just three months before the birth of his youngest grandson.

Young William Herbert followed his three elder brothers to Eton, where he learned to row and served in the OTC. From the novice pulling competition in June 1913 he progressed to bow in the novice eight which lost the 1914 inter-house final. The following year he stroked the Eton second eight at Henley, where the war years were marked by an informal schools competition. In 1916 he was Captain of his House, and stroked the First Boat at Henley in his last term at school.

His housemaster would later write: "In early days he was inclined to be dreamy and seemed a little lonely at times ; it was only when he rowed that his attention never wandered, and his vigour and courage never failed."

After leaving Eton he joined the 1st Battalion Coldstream Guards, gazetted as a 2nd Lieutenant in January 1917, and six months later was elected to Leander. There is no specific information in the records as regards his election, but the normal criteria, such as participation the Boat Race or a Henley final, did not exist during the war years and it is tempting to conclude that the committee were keen to use their own judgment in boosting the membership, which was already much depleted after years of conflict.

He was awarded the Military Cross on 22 April 1918 for 'conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty'. The citation read: "When in command of an attacking party during a raid, he led his party with splendid dash and, on the barrage lifting, gauged the right moment to rush the enemy front line. By his prompt action he forestalled the enemy taking the offensive, and rendered possible the unmolested approach of the whole raiding party to the hostile lines."

Five months later, on 27 September, he was killed in action at Havrincourt, to the southwest of Cambrai, and was buried at Sanders Keep military cemetery. He was just 20 years old.

William Herbert was not the only member of his family to serve at the Front. His brother Charles, served in the Intelligence Department, but survived the notoriously short life expectancy of the Royal Flying Corps, to which he was attached. After being taken prisoner of war in Germany he was released at the end of hostilities and returned to his teaching job at Eton where he would spend the next 28 years.

Their older brother, Albert, had a more illustrious rowing career, unhindered by the war, and rowed four times for Oxford in the Boat Race, as well as rowing at bow in the Leander eight that won the gold medal for GB in the Olympic regatta in 1908. Albert later served in Mesopotamia and Gallipoli, and was mentioned in despatches, but survived the war and went on to a successful business career.

Their cousin, William Glynne Charles Gladstone, was less fortunate, killed in action just three weeks after arriving in France in 1915. He was shot by a sniper and, having initially been buried in France, special permission was granted by King George V for his body to be brought back to the UK, to be reburied at the church near Hawarden.

Leander's last casualty of the war was

William Alfred Littledale 'Flea' Fletcher, who succumbed to the Spanish flu epidemic of 1919. An enormously successful oarsman in his time, Fletcher had just been elected Chairman of the Committee of Management at Henley, and was the prime instigator behind the Peace Regatta of 1919, an event he would never live to see. Just six weeks after his election he succumbed to the infection and his lungs, weakened by mustard gas in the trenches, had no defence.

NEW MEMBERSHIP CARDS

CLOSURE OF MEMBERS' ACCOUNTS

A 'next generation' membership card will be sent out to Members within the next few months which will enable access to the car park and allow you to continue to receive a Member's discount on the listed bar and restaurant prices without the need to prepay into your account. This 'next generation' card will mean that we can cease the awkward practice of Members pre-loading money onto their Member's account in order to benefit from the discount. All member bar and restaurant cash transactions will receive a discount except at the Regatta, where transactions are through a third party.

When this new system is up and running, there will therefore no longer be a need for Member's pre-paid accounts. Those Member's with money already on their accounts will be able to use their existing funds up until 31st December 2019 when making cash payments at the Bar or Restaurant by presenting their new cards, except at the Regatta. Thereafter, any remaining unused balances on a Member's account will be treated as a donation towards the Club's "Boat Fund", and the account closed.

If you wish to check the current balance on your account, you may do so by logging into the Member's area of the website. You will need the email address you have registered with the Club and your membership number, which is on your existing membership card. Full details of how the new cards will operate will be sent out to Members with the new cards in due course.

REMEMBERING OUR MEMBERS

ROBERT LEE 1956-2108 ELECTED 1973

Robert Lee was born on 16th June 1954 and started his coxing career at St George's College, Weybridge.

In 1971 he was selected to go to the world youth championships in Lake Bled to cox a composite four from Hampton Grammar School, Walton RC and St George's College.

In 1973 he came to Leander and coxed the club to its first ever victory in the Head of the River Race, in typical Robert fashion, he found time to cox the Quintin Eight to win the National Championships before going on to cox the GB men's coxed pair in the European Championships in Moscow. In 1974 he coxed the Leander eight to medals in Ghent, Copenhagen and the National Championships.

In 1975 he coxed Leander's Britannia Challenge Cup crew to victory. In 1976 he coxed Leander in both the Prince Philip and the Grand Challenge Cup, coxing the Grand crew again in 1977. Following Henley, he was selected to cox the men's eight at the Amsterdam World Championships in 1977 finishing 5th and in 1978 Robert once again coxed the men's eight at the Karapiro (NZ) World Championships in 1978 finishing 7th.

After a start in catering, Robert forged a successful career in the wine trade and worked for Ellis of Richmond for twenty eight years. In addition to his rowing he was a talented rugby player and was a very keen sporting shot. In 1996 he married his soul-mate Angela.

MARTIN BRANDON-BRAVO 1932 – 2018 ELECTED 1977

Martin Brandon-Bravo, who has died aged 86, rose to national and international prominence in rowing as an oarsman, umpire, administrator, and as the man who spearheaded the development of the UK's first 2000m rowing course.

His involvement in the sport led not only to membership of Leander Club, where he was elected in 1977, but also to his election as President of the Amateur Rowing Association (now British Rowing) from 1993-2001. Born in London, Martin moved to Nottingham after completing his National Service and began a lifelong association with Nottingham and Union Rowing Club in 1952, being elected captain five years later. The club went on to win the Wyfold Challenge Cup at Henley in 1963 (and again in 2010); from 1983 until his death he was its active president.

An international rowing umpire for 28 years Martin was the driving force behind the development of the National Water Sports Centre at Holme Pierrepont. He found himself up against the hierarchy of the Amateur Rowing Association, who did not want the first 2000m course in the country to be anywhere other than the Thames Valley.

Other vested interests were concerned that the new course would effectively be in conflict with Henley Royal Regatta, but Martin was adamant that Holme Pierrepont would not conflict with Henley in any way, and he was right. Some thirty years later his skills proved invaluable when he was able to act as a consultant in the development of the GB Rowing Lake at Caversham.

For many years he was a Conservative councillor for the City of Nottingham and was elected MP for Nottingham South from 1983 to 1992.

Martin always loved Henley and attended the majority of regattas in his lifetime. For many years he and his wife Sally kept a second home in the town, where he spent increasing amounts of time in later years.

Following his cremation, Martin's ashes will be scattered at Holme Pierrepont, the rowing course which will be his lasting legacy to the sport.

THE REV. MICHAEL LAPAGE 1923 –2018 ELECTED 1948

Born in 1924, Michael learned to row at Monkton Combe School and was in the school eight from 1940-42.

After the war, he returned to rowing at Cambridge, competing at seven in the 1948 Blue Boat. Their winning time, under 18 minutes was a record held until 1974. Michael won a silver medal at the 1948 Olympic Games in the GB eight as a Leander member. He then went on to win bronze at the 1950 Empire Games in New Zealand.

He also became a successful coach at Winchester College winning the Schools' Head and the Princess Elizabeth Challenge Cup at Henley in 1949. Following his retirement from rowing he dedicated himself to missionary and parish work. He became a missionary in Kenya, where he met his wife, Margaret, and had two daughters and a son.

He attended Henley Regatta as a parent, coach and supporter of his grandchildren. His last visit being in 2015 at the age of 91. A key highlight for him was to row Gloriana down the Henley course - in the stroke seat. He was also rowing as she made passage to Tower Bridge.

In 2012 he carried the Olympic torch and was proud to be part of the guard of honour as the torch came to Leander, carried by Sir Steve Redgrave.
